REV. BIGELOW APOLOGIZES AND SAVES JOB AS THE CHIEF

Delegates in Ohio Constitutional Convention Become Enraged at Ruling and Threaten the Presiding Officer With an Adult Dose of Recall.

HARVEST OF SESSIONS IN OHIO CON-CON

Delegates Threaten to Use Recall on President Bigelow.

DECISION AROUSES THEIR IRE

Recessed Constitutional Convention Recused Against Vociferous Protests of Lamps Adherents When Delegate Doty Sought to Mark Time on Proposed Amendment to Crosser I. and R. Proposal — Bigelow Announces Convention Right.

Columbus, O., March 21.—President Bigelow this morning made the following apology to the constitutional convention for his action in declaring the convention recessed against the loud protests of delegates, who later indulged in threats to use the recall provision of the convention rules against the presiding officer:

"The convention was right in overruling me. I believed, in the confusion that the vote had been announced before a call for a division was heard. I should not have stood on the technicality."

The motion to recess was offered by Mr. Bigelow's lieutenant, E. W. Doty of Channahon. "The motion presided," said President Bigelow, while many delegates were shouting noes and crying out for "division" and "a play." Then the president calmly walked from the dais, but the convention became a scene of stormy agitation and protest. It refused to be recessed.

Fess Called to Chair. The President Fess was called to the chairman's seat. A cheering crowd greeted him as he took the stand. Then by a vote of 40 to 66, the recess ruling of President Bigelow was set aside and the convention resumed business where it had left off so abruptly.

Radical I. and R. leaders became convinced that the Crosser proposal wouldn't be passed. It was re-drafted and offered as a substitute. The old proposal and the Lamps amendment intended to forbid the single tax were tabled. Delegate Lamps, who is fighting for an anti-single tax amendment, claimed the agreement had been made that he could reoffer his amendment. He refused to be satisfied with a substitute which Delegate Miller offered. When he sought to press his claim, the recess was ordered and the trouble began. Upon resumption of business the Miller substitute was tabled and Lamps was permitted to offer his amendment.

LAYLIN TO CALL PRIMARY IS HOPE

Chairman Brown Points to Action of Democrats.

Columbus, O., March 21.—Chairman Walter F. Brown of the Republican state central committee has replied to L. C. Laylin, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, who disapproved Brown's suggestions for election of delegates-at-large to the national convention by a convention of district delegates and for the holding of the state nominating convention after the national convention.

Mr. Brown in his letter states that he wholly disapproves with Mr. Laylin's construction of certain sections of the call for the national convention, and concludes as follows:

"Your view that the language 'popular state convention called by the state central committee' means the state nominating convention is not shared so far as I know by any Republican state committee in this country. The calls of the New York and Indiana state committees are before me. Each provides for a state convention in March for the sole purpose of electing delegates-at-large, and another convention, to be called subsequent to the national convention, for the purpose of nominating the state ticket. So far as I know, Ohio is the only state which has heretofore made a practice of holding its state nominating convention in advance of the national convention."

You have probably noticed that the call of the Democratic state central committee provides for a presidential preference vote. If the secretary of state should rule that provision for such a vote may be made upon the official primary ballot, I further suggest that the Republican call in a similar manner, provide for a direct expression of presidential preference."

Brown Issues Call.

Columbus, O., March 21.—Walter Brown, chairman of the Republican state central committee, has issued a call for a meeting of the committee, to be held in Columbus on March 30.

Secretary Knox's Life Is Threatened

New Orleans, March 21.—Word was received from Bluefields of an attempt on the life of Secretary Knox while he was traveling from Corinto to Managua. Thirteen dynamite bombs were found carefully planted between the railroad tracks and connected with an electric battery.

The discovery was made after the train with the secretary and party on board had passed. It is believed an imperfect connection prevented their being detonated.

SLIGHT HOPE IS HELD OUT FOR MINERS

Are Entombed In Shaft Near McCurtain, Okla.

MINE WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

Thirteen Men Dragged Out by First Rescue Party, but Three Will Die. Fifteen Bodies Located, but Can Not Be Removed at Present—Government Rescue Squad Returns to McAlester Station After Pronouncing Situation Hopeless.

McCurtain, Okla., March 21.—It is now almost positively known that there is no hope that any of the 105 miners entombed in mine No. 2 of the San Benito Coal company, west of here, is alive. The government mine experts who were summoned from McAlester announced that there was no possible chance to rescue any of the entombed men alive, and that they would return to their station at McAlester.

An explosion wrecked the mine, carried away the tipples and damaged the fan house so badly that it was not until six hours had elapsed that a small quantity of air could be forced into the pit. Eleven men escaped safely from the mine. One body has been recovered.

One hundred and sixteen men, according to an official bulletin issued by the coal company, entered the mine for work.

The first rescue party crept into the mine half an hour after the explosion. At the bottom of the pit they met 12 men creeping about in the smoke, which momentarily became more dense. The rescuers dragged them forth. The men were almost suffocated. Thirteen men, it is now learned, escaped from the mine, but of this number three may die. Eight men at work at the mule stables escaped through the entrance used by the mules. Rescuers found five men badly injured.

Fifteen bodies have been located, but it is impossible to get them out. Among the dead brought to the top were John and Pat Goss, brothers, found in each other's arms.

Poor Woman

Woman Confesses to More Marriages Than Divorces.

Allentown, Pa., March 21.—Mrs. Jennie Schwoyer, 27 and good looking, the wife of an Allentown ice man, is in jail on a charge that she had married 10 husbands and has not been divorced from any.

Her first husband, Frank Miller, left her a widow at 18. Previous to her becoming the wife of Edward Schwoyer, her present spouse, she had been married to John Gehris of this city, but left him after a year. Her other husbands, she declares, were men of no account and not worth mentioning.

She says Schwoyer's act in prosecuting her is a low-down piece of spunkwork because she found it necessary some time ago to have him arrested for non-support.

Ice Hits Maumee Bridge.

Toledo, O., March 21.—Flood conditions in the Maumee river took a serious turn when huge cakes of ice, loosened by the thaw, crashed against the piling under the Cherry street bridge, knocking one span of that structure out of plumb.

Gives Woman the Limit.

Zanesville, O., March 21.—Probate Judge Smith fined Mrs. Belle Moore $1,000 and sentenced her to the workhouse for one year for contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl who was found in her house with Charles Sharp, a married man.

IN MARYLAND?

Annapolis, Md., March 21.—Just after the vote to take up the local option bill, William R. Smallwood, delegate from Prince George county, arose and charged that John F. O'Malley, state auditor and political lieutenant of Senator Gorman, had offered him $2,500 to vote against the bill. O'Malley, Smallwood declared, had informed him he had made a similar offer to D. Clendennin of Cecil county, and he had accepted. Because of the prominence of the man accused, the announcement caused a tremendous sensation. Delegate Cook, Democratic floor leader and leader of the anti-local option forces, promptly moved the appointment of an investigating committee. O'Malley declares he does not know Smallwood.

New Southern Tribute to Women of the Confederacy

ANOTHER notable monument has been added to the existing memorials of the civil war. This one, unlike the most that have been erected, has not for its purpose the glorification of the men who went to the front and fought, but of the women who stayed at home, worked and prayed for the "lost cause." It is the new marble group at Columbia, representing "The glorification by the state of South Carolina and her children of the women of the Confederacy." The sculptor is F. W. Ruckstuhl of New York. The seated figure typifies the women of the south, the winged figure with the wreath the genius of the state. The inscriptions on the pedestal were selected from offerings made by writers whose identity was kept secret until the choice had been made. The successful contestant was William F. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia State. On the eastern face of the pedestal are these words: "In this monument generations unborn shall hear the voice of a great people testifying to the sublime devotion of the women of South Carolina in their country's need. Their unconquerable spirit strengthened the thin lines of gray. Their tender care was solace to the stricken. * * * The tragedy of the Confederacy may be forgotten, but the traits of the noble service of the daughters of the south are our perpetual heritage."

BRIBERY TRIAL IN FULL SWING

DICTAGRAPH NOTES ADMITTED

Alleged Conversation Indicates That Accused Senator Was Told by Detective That If $200 Was Not Enough, More Would Be Forthcoming—Solon Replied That "They" Were Not Pirates and Had No Intention of Holding Anyone Up.

Columbus, O., March 21.—Detective Frank Harrison Smiley, on the stand, testifying to the alleged meeting in his room at the Chittenden hotel April 27, 1911, when he says he paid Senator Isaac Huffman $250 for his support of the Cetone-Whittemore insurance bill, said: "Senator Cetone was there. Diegel was there and Dr. Nye was there."

"It was about 5:30 in the afternoon," said Smiley. "Diegel called up Senator Huffman at the senate chamber from my room and Senator Cetone, who was there with Diegel, talked to Huffman."

"Hello, is that you, Ike?" Cetone said over my telephone. Come down to the Chittenden, room 317, and we'll get that matter fixed up. Jump a car and come down right away. We'll wait for you," Smiley testified.

Fifteen minutes after this telephone conversation Smiley said Huffman came into his room with Diegel, who had gone down in the lobby to meet him and escort him up. He said Cetone and Diegel had come to his room about 5:20, and it was between 5:30 and 6 o'clock when Huffman came.

The dictagraph reported the alleged conversation that took place. The alleged report of the conversation between Smiley, then going under his middle name of Harrison, and Huffman was as follows:

WOULD HOLD TO PRESENT TAX

State Taxers Want It In New Constitution.

Columbus, O., March 21.—After kicking the poor old personal property assessor about for two days until he was a mass of bruises and there wasn't an unbroken bone left in his body, the convention, consisting of county auditors and members of boards of review, called at the instance of the tax commission, summarily laid on the table a resolution looking to the abolition of the present system of electing such assessors.

On motion of Frank A. Sarstedt of Cleveland, it was unanimously declared to be the sense of the meeting that the limitations of the Smith 1 per cent law should be incorporated in the constitution and recommended that the constitutional convention, now in session, submit an amendment to that effect. It was stated that there was a fear on the part of large property owners, particularly owners of intangible personal property, that some subsequent legislature would repeal the present tax limit laws and that the old rates of taxation, running from 1 1/2 to 3 1/4 per cent, would again be levied on property, which is now assessed at full value, and that for this reason the owners of that class of property hesitated to make full returns; while if such a provision was incorporated in the constitution it was believed that substantially all taxable property could be listed with little trouble.

Shutdown Is Predicted In Bituminous Coal Mines

President White Says Miners Will Not Budge an Inch.

Cleveland, O., March 21.—According to John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, a temporary suspension of work in the soft coal mines will begin April 1. "The soft coal miners will not concede one inch in their original proposition," said White. "They are going to stand firm for an increase in their wages, for they believe that they are justly entitled to it. Because the operators have expressed themselves as against an increase, a suspension of work at the soft coal mines is inevitable."

"If the operators do not accede eventually—and they say they will not—a strike will be called. We have come to this conference to get the concession justice gives us. We are not going to stop our fight short of the last ditch."

This statement, made by President White after the recess of the coal men's conference here, coupled with the declaration by Chairman J. C. Kolsen of the operators that the mine owners neither would give in a jot from their stand, which calls for an actual decrease, is taken to mean that a huge strike, involving nearly half a million bituminous mine workers of the United States, is practically certain.

EIGHT DEAD IN EXPLOSION

Family of Foreigner Wiped Out at Scranton (Pa.) Suburb.

Scranton, Pa., March 21.—In an explosion that blew the home of John Corello, in Dunmore, a suburb, into atoms, Corello's wife, six of his children and one of his grandchildren met instant death. Without a moment's warning they were trapped in their sleeping apartments and cremated. The authorities believe that a gas explosion caused the disaster.

"SEEING THE WORLD"

Local Boys Are Brought Home by Probation Officer of Juvenile Court Who Gives Interesting Talk.

BOYS ARE SADDER BUT WISER

After a futile attempt to "see the world" Arthur Lindsey and Clifford Daily, two 14-year-old boys of this city, were brought back from their wanderings by Miss Carrie Hershey, chief probation officer of the Juvenile court, of Springfield, Thursday morning.

The young boys were found asleep in a box car in the Big Four yards at Springfield by Big Four detective, Marrott and taken to the Detention Home. The boys told the usual story of wanting to see what was going on outside of their home town and said they lived in Washington C. H. The probation officer phoned over here and found their story true.

Clifford Daily is the step-son of Lou Pickens, broom-maker of this city, and the same boy who was captured at Hamilton 6 weeks ago and claimed to have been kidnapped by gypsies.

Arthur Lindsey is the son of Arch Lindsey.

Both boys are bright looking little fellows and are to be pitied in that they have not had the best chance in the world and their capabilities not developed in the right direction.

The Springfield probation officer upon arriving in this city took the boys to Judge Patton, of the Probate court, who is also Juvenile Judge.

Judge Patton gave both the boys a lecture and ordered them home. He told the Daily boy that if he did not report at school next Monday, he would be sent to the reform farm.

Miss Hershey, the head probation officer of Springfield, is a sister of Capt. W. B. Hershey of this city, and deeply interested in Juvenile court work.

In talking with a Herald reporter she expressed surprise that there were no probation officers in this city. Springfield has two salaried officers and a number of volunteer officers who are interested in the reclaiming work of the Juvenile court and donate their services from philanthropic motives.

In Indianapolis, Ind., there are 500 volunteer probation officers who are doing a great work among the children of that city. There is a great deal of home visiting in Springfield and the Juvenile court trials are held in the courts of their own court room in the Detention home, so that children are not brought into the criminal courts.

Miss Hershey thinks that our city would do great good if some of its humanitarians would take up juvenile court work.

Its possibilities are limitless. There are plenty of boys and girls in our city who do not have the right home influences, who are not doing right and shirking school. The probation officers keep in touch with these children and as far as possible improve home conditions, in lines of cleanliness and sanitary conditions, as well as moral influence. They see that children are kept in school and employed in the right way. They try to keep them from doing wrong instead of punishing them.

Miss Hershey said that she would think this county able to pay one probation officer to take general supervision of the work.

Female Vote A Big Factor

While the campaign managers are confining their arguments and appeals to the male voting population of the Nation and will continue to do so until the poles are closed in November, it should not be forgotten that women are going to cut a very might decide the election.

It is estimated that about 1,250,000 women will be entitled to vote in the presidential election this year. This is about one fourteenth of the probable vote for all the candidates. Women vote in California, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, and Washington, states having thirty-seven votes in the Electoral College. Neither of these states is pivotal by any means, but all of them are debatable, and it is conceivable that in a closely contested election their votes may decide the issue. California alone has 672,000 women entitled to vote. In that state the fair sex predominates by a large majority, a peculiar fact in the face of the general impression that women are scarce in the Far West.

There is prospect, too, that three other states may be added to the list of those in which women may vote before the Ides of November, Oregon, Wisconsin and Kansas will vote on equal suffrage amendments in September with a healthy prospect that all three states will vote for the enlargement of the franchise. These states have twenty-seven electoral votes, which added to the thirty-seven in the 5 western states would make a total of sixty-four votes in the college of 531 Electors, or more than one ninth. Presidents have been elected by very small margins in the Electoral College and it would seem that the campaign managers might do well to devote a little special attention to the woman vote this year.

Triangular Debate Friday Night

Friday night in Memorial hall the Washington C. H. High school debaters and those from the Circleville High school will settle the question, Resolved, That the Commission Form of Government is Preferable to the Present Municipal Code for Ohio, the subject before the Triangular Debating Society.

This is the first time that the local High school has entered the debating league and its representatives are going against the Circleville team of old debaters. That team has been in the debating league for some time and will prove opponents worth the name.

The affirmative side of the question will be argued by the W. C. H. high school students, Maynard Craig, Miss Nellie Miller, Davis Edwards, with Maxwell Dice alternate.

Both teams are out to win and the debate promises exciting interest as well as large information on this vital question in municipal government.

Everybody ought to attend both to encourage the debaters and to show civic pride and foster literary effort. The small fee of twenty-five cents goes to pay the expense connected with the debate and is not intended to make money.

The local high school is sending Paul Zimmerman, Ray Thorp, James Ballard, debaters, Ned Erskine alternate, to Chillicothe to argue the negative side of the question with the Chillicothe team.

IRON DEPOSIT IS DISCOVERED IN PENNSY HILLS

Pittsburg, March 21. — "Iron," an immense deposit of highest grade iron ore, conservatively estimated at more than 1,000,000,000 tons, has been located in the heart of Pennsylvania. The mother lode of red hematite ore which scientists for many years have believed lay somewhere in southern Pennsylvania has been located almost at the door of the present steel and iron industry in the world. It is claimed by geologists and engineers who have made investigation that it is the most startling discovery since the discovery of gold in 1849, and is destined to mark a new era in the steel and iron industry of this country. It is located in Ayr township, Fulton county, in three spurs of the Blue Ridge mountains, known as Meadow Ground mountains, Lowrey's Knob and Dicke mountain, 240 miles by rail from Pittsburg.

Nation-wide Revolver Laws

Springfield, Mass., March 19.—The United States Revolver Association which provides the American teams in international Revolver Championship matches and which is now getting together a team to represent the United States in the Olympic contests next summer, has decided to take a hand in the revolver law legislation that is going on pretty much all over the country.

This announcement was made here by Mr. J. B. Crabtree, Secretary-Treasurer of the Association. According to Mr. Crabtree, the decision of the Revolver Association was made when it found that its efforts were hampered by revolver legislation to such an extent that in many cases its members, consisting of nearly all the crack shots of the country, were unable lawfully to carry their pistols between their homes and their revolver ranges. When interviewed, Secretary Crabtree said:

"Things have come to a pretty pass when law-abiding citizens that are experts in the handling of fire-arms, may not lawfully carry a target pistol from their homes to a shooting range, all because of a handful of crooks which the police are unable to handle."

"This feature, however, is merely what originally suggested our action. The danger lies in the experimental secret weapons legislation which is taking place pretty much all over the country. Many states, like Massachusetts, learned in time, what a fizzle New York state made of legislating so that it has become almost impossible for the law-abiding citizen to buy arms for legitimate home protection. Other states are enacting other experimental laws along different lines. The result is a mess of conflicting laws so absurd that even express messengers allowed to wear fire-arms in one state are obliged to take these off and lock them up in closets as they cross the line into an adjoining state."

"For these reasons we have decided, through our 1500 members scattered throughout the country, to try to put a bullet-proof revolver law upon the statutes of every state."

"Experience in New York has shown that what we need to hold down the crook is a double-barreled revolver law,—one that not only permits the legitimate self-protection of the law-abiding citizen, but one charged with a grape and canister punishment for the crook found with concealed weapons."

"First of all make it mandatory

that punishment is inflicted for violation of your revolver law. Then give us a law that provides that no man ever convicted of theft, burglary or other crime of violence, may carry a fire-arm or any other concealed weapon under pain of ten-year state's prison sentence. Put the law on your statutes and the crook who arms himself, if caught, automatically sentences himself."

"For the law-abiding, make the law easy. Leave the respectable citizen unrestricted to procure weapons for house protection or arm himself when necessary. Compel him to register his name and address and the number of his revolver when he buys and compel him to notify the police if for any reason he transfers his weapon to another person. If he wants to carry an arm, compel him to obtain a license."

"Restrict him in any way you like, but don't take away the one weapon which may mean life to him."

Making a Bed for a River

At Rangoon, one of the chief ports of India, it was found some time ago that the deep water channel was shifting towards the other side of the Hlaing river, which, of course, would in time render the present port useless. It was decided to keep the main channel in its old place by means of a great dyke more than two miles long. The treacherous character of the river bed making ordinary methods for the erection of masonry walls impossible, an ingenious scheme was devised. Great mattresses, each 125 feet long, some 75 or 80 feet wide, and 3 feet thick, were made of woven brushwood. These were sunk into position by the weight of hundreds of tons of rock, the idea being that the fabrication, sinking to the bottom and being spread upon the soft soil, would only sink into the ooze to a certain depth and thus form a solid foundation upon which to deposit a rubble wall.

It is estimated that about 1,250,000 women will be entitled to vote in the presidential election this year. This is about one fourteenth of the probable vote for all the candidates. Women vote in California, Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, and Washington, states having thirty-seven votes in the Electoral College. Neither of these states is pivotal by any means, but all of them are debatable, and it is conceivable that in a closely contested election their votes may decide the issue. California alone has 672,000 women entitled to vote. In that state the fair sex predominates by a large majority, a peculiar fact in the face of the general impression that women are scarce in the Far West.

There is prospect, too, that three other states may be added to the list of those in which women may vote before the Ides of November, Oregon, Wisconsin and Kansas will vote on equal suffrage amendments in September with a healthy prospect that all three states will vote for the enlargement of the franchise. These states have twenty-seven electoral votes, which added to the thirty-seven in the 5 western states would make a total of sixty-four votes in the college of 531 Electors, or more than one ninth. Presidents have been elected by very small margins in the Electoral College and it would seem that the campaign managers might do well to devote a little special attention to the woman vote this year.

Triangular Debate Friday Night

Friday night in Memorial hall the Washington C. H. High school debaters and those from the Circleville High school will settle the question. Resolved, That the Commission Form of Government is Preferable to the Present Municipal Code for Ohio, the subject before the Triangular Debating Society.

This is the first time that the local High school has entered the debating league and its representatives are going against the Circleville team of old debaters. That team has been in the debating league for some time and will prove opponents worth the name.

The affirmative side of the question will be argued by the W. C. H. high school students, Maynard Craig, Miss Nellie Miller, Davis Edwards, with Maxwell Dice alternate.

Both teams are out to win and the debate promises exciting interest as well as large information on this vital question in municipal government.

Everybody ought to attend both to encourage the debaters and to show civic pride and foster literary effort. The small fee of twenty-five cents goes to pay the expense connected with the debate and is not intended to make money.

The local high school is sending Paul Zimmerman, Ray Thorp, James Ballard, debaters, Ned Erskine alternate, to Chillicothe to argue the negative side of the question with the Chillicothe team.

IRON DEPOSIT IS DISCOVERED IN PENNSY HILLS

Pittsburg, March 21.—"Iron," an immense deposit of highest grade iron ore, conservatively estimated at more than 1,000,000,000 tons, has been located in the heart of Pennsylvania. The mother lode of red hematite ore which scientists for many years have believed lay somewhere in southern Pennsylvania has been located almost at the door of the largest steel and iron industry in the world. It is claimed by geologists and engineers who have made investigation that it is the most startling discovery since the discovery of gold in 1849, and is destined to mark a new era in the steel and iron industry of this country. It is located in Ayr township, Fulton county, in three spurs of the Blue Ridge mountains, known as Meadow Ground mountains, Lowrey's Knob and Dickie mountain, 240 miles by rail from Pittsburg.

Nation-wide Revolver Laws

Springfield, Mass., March 19.—The United States Revolver Association which provides the American teams in International Revolver Championship matches and which is now getting together a team to represent the United States in the Olympic contests next summer, has decided to take a hand in the revolver law legislation that is going on pretty much all over the country.

This announcement was made here by Mr. J. B. Crabtree, Secretary-Treasurer of the Association. According to Mr. Crabtree, the decision of the Revolver Association was made when it found that its efforts were hampered by revolver legislation to such an extent that in many cases its members, consisting of nearly all the crack shots of the country, were unable lawfully to carry their pistols between their homes and their revolver ranges. When interviewed, Secretary Crabtree said:

"Things have come to a pretty pass when law-abiding citizens that are experts in the handling of fire-arms, may not lawfully carry a target pistol from their homes to a shooting range, all because of a handful of crooks which the police are unable to handle."

"This feature, however, is merely what originally suggested our action. The danger lies in the experimental secret weapons legislation which is taking place pretty much all over the country. Many states, like Massachusetts, learned in time, what a fizzle New York state made of legislating so that it has become almost impossible for the law-abiding citizen to buy arms for legitimate home protection. Other states are enacting other experimental laws along different lines. The result is a mess of conflicting laws so absurd that even express messengers allowed to wear fire-arms in one state are obliged to take these off and lock them up in closets as they cross the line into an adjoining state."

"For these reasons we have decided, through our 1500 members scattered throughout the country, to try to put a bullet-proof revolver law upon the statutes of every state."

"Experience in New York has shown that what we need to hold down the crook is a double-barreled revolver law,—one that not only permits the legitimate self-protection of the law-abiding citizen, but one charged with a grape and canister punishment for the crook found with concealed weapons."

"First of all make it mandatory

that punishment is inflicted for violation of your revolver law. Then give us a law that provides that no man ever convicted of theft, burglary or other crime of violence, may carry a fire-arm or any other concealed weapon under pain of ten-year state's prison sentence. Put the law on your statutes and the crook who arms himself, if caught, automatically sentences himself.

"For the law-abiding, make the law easy. Leave the respectable citizen unrestricted to procure weapons for house protection or arm himself when necessary. Compel him to register his name and address and the number of his revolver when he buys and compel him to notify the police if for any reason he transfers his weapon to another person. If he wants to carry an arm, compel him to obtain a license."

"Restrict him in any way you like, but don't take away the one weapon which may mean life to him."

MORRIS WHIPPED OKLAHOMA GIANT GIVEN DRUBBING

New York, March 21.—Physic endurance alone saved Carl Morris the Oklahoma heavyweight, from crushing defeat at the hands of J. Stewart of Brooklyn in a 10-round slugging match at the Empire athletic club in Harlem. Stewart was but not by a big margin. He fought the giant with great care, shooting in clean lefts until Morris' face was a mass of bruises. Stewart did more damage at close quarters, too. Morris was slow in delivering his punch and seemed to be unable to put his great weight behind them.

Making a Bed for a River

At Rangoon, one of the chief ports of India, it was found some time ago that the deep water channel was shifting towards the other side of the Hsing river, which, of course, would in time render the present port useless. It was decided to keep the main channel in its old place by means of a great dyke more than two miles long. The treacherous character of the river bed making ordinary methods for the erection of masonry walls impossible, an ingenious scheme was devised. Great mattresses, each 125 feet long, some 75 or 80 feet wide, and 3 feet thick, were made of woven brushwood. These were sunk into position by the weight of hundreds of tons of rock, the idea being that the fabrication, sinking to the bottom and being spread upon the soft mud, would only sink into the mud to a certain depth and thus form a solid foundation upon which to deposit a rubble wall.

Entire Judy Block Is to Be Remodeled

Mr. S. W. Cissna, as trustee of the Judy heirs, is making preparations to remodel and rebuild the Judy block, which was gutted and partly destroyed by the big fire.

This is the block fronting on Main street which stood immediately north of the Masonic Temple, and a large portion of which was burned down, while the entire block was damaged.

It will be practically all have to be rebuilt except part of the front wall and some of the partition walls.

Plans and specifications have been prepared by Williams & Hicks, and call for bids has been issued. The block will be constructed along the same line as before, only will be much more modern, and it is the intention of Mr. Cissna to have the work commenced just as soon as possible.

This block was occupied by the Theobald Millinery store, Cozy Corner and Barkimer's Piano store on the 1st floor and Frank Chaffin, C. A. Cave and Allen & Allen's office on the second floor.

As soon as the building is remodeled, Peter Brown will again open the Cozy Corner. This room will be the first remodeled, and it is thought the Cozy Corner will be re-opened by early summer, or even late spring.

A man and woman, each aged about 27 years, appeared at the Probate Judge's office and asked for a marriage license. The woman said she was from Hamilton county, and was promptly informed that she could not receive a license in this county. This greatly surprised both parties and the man stated that he had often noticed in the papers where persons from this place went to Cincinnati to be married, and thought they could secure a license here.

The pair came to this city Wednesday evening and spent the night, appearing at the probate judge's office before it was open. They took the next train for Cincinnati.

SIZE THEM UP.

The American people compelled to listen to the long drawn out discussions of the many new fangled governmental wrinkles suggested and advocated by designing politicians anxious to ride into office and power on the crest of some istm tide which may catch the fancy of a majority of the voters, might have saved themselves all the noise and trouble.

How!

By never departing from the good, old fashioned plan of putting only honest and morally clean men in office.

All these reforms designed to save the people from the consequences of their own wilfully or negligently wrong conduct would find no attentive ear if the voters had all along insisted that only clean men be placed in office and power.

It is astonishing that any intelligent voter would for a fraction of a second allow himself to believe that a man morally unclean could make a good public servant.

Yet there are men today who make no secret of the life they live—men who forget or disregard intentionally the sacred ties of home—men who cast aside in the first hours of success the wife and family who struggled uncomplainingly and even cheerfully along the apparently endless road of adversity—who are now aspiring to high places within the gift of the people.

There are men who in the first moments of victory to gratify an ambition, forget or betray the men on whose broad shoulders they leaned and on whose substance they fed until able to "go it alone."

Men of that stripe have the hardihood to ask the intelligent voters to invest them with the power of office.

That kind of men pose as reformers and claim right to recognition because they stand for higher and better things. Just so long as the voters allow or compel themselves to believe that men who will betray their friends, lead immoral lives, be unclean and false in their private life can be clean and honest in public affairs, just so long will the voters be casting about like a rudderless ship, seeking aid.

We do not need the initiative and referendum, the recall and other reforms injected into our fabric of government, good though they may be, nearly so much as we need reform in the men who are trusted with the reins of power.

We have progressed from the days of crude boodling in politics but we still have the boss and we still have the candidate who has betrayed home and friends, whose private life is as black as night, asking the voters to believe that he can and will honestly and conscientiously serve them as a public official.

While We Sleep Other Nations Will Reap Benefits of Panama Canal

European Countries Already Have Strong Footing In South America

By LEWIS NIXON, Shipbuilder and Merchant Marine Advocate

AS THE SITUATION NOW STANDS WE SHALL HAVE THE SATISFACTION OF BUILDING

AND PAYING FOR THE PANAMA CANAL, BUT UNLESS THERE IS A DECIDED AWAKENING AMONG OUR PEOPLE OTHER COUNTRIES WILL REAP THE BENEFITS THAT WILL FOLLOW ITS OPENING TO WORLD COMMERCE.

For a nation that prides itself on its practical business sense the spectacle of the great engineers who are rapidly bringing the canal to completion imploring congress to enact such legislation as will enable them to prepare for its efficient and economic operation is a REFLECTION ON AMERICAN STATESMANSHIP. There seems to be an idea prevailing that the opening of the canal will be followed by great prosperity.

The fact must not be lost sight of that through San Francisco we already have water communication with the west coast of South America. Yet Great Britain and Germany by commercial enterprise control the CREAM OF THE TRADE ALONG THAT COAST.

And this trade has grown up even though we controlled one Panama railway, and the passing at one time of six-sevenths of its shares into the hands of the French company made no difference.

So outside of its war value the advantage to our people will be LITTLE AFFECTED BY THE TITULAR CONTROL UNLESS WE ARISE TO THE COMMERCIAL AND MARITIME NEEDS OF THE SITUATION.

THE GARDEN CATALOGUE.

The seedsmen and the nurserymen are sending out the books With lots of wondrous pictures of green yards and grassy nooks; The florists' lists are coming, with the printed front that glows With tulips and carnations and the Maryland Beauty rose. They make delightful reading, though we greet with haughty scorn Their statements in re 'sparagus and lima beans and corn.

But don't be too hard on them, for it may be they are yet About as near the country as the most of us will get.

They come by mail and messenger, and how their covers shine With every bean a mammoth bean upon a mammoth vine.

The turnips and potatoes look already good to eat. And yet with snoots and scoldings men are prone these lists to greet.

They're interesting documents, however, and we take Them home inside our pockets and we talk of hoe and rake.

Of exercise we're needing, for amid our foam and fret They're almost all the country that the most of us will get.

We've propagated acres in our dreams, and still we dream Of gardens growing magical in catalogues of gleam.

So, when the season brings them in our morning mail again, We try to give them welcome with the friendship of real men.

Not that we'll ever believe them or be guided what they say, But that they bring a freshness to our dusty, toiling way.

And that mid all life's trouble and its worry and regret They're about as near the country as the most of us will get.

SIZE THEM UP.

The American people compelled to listen to the long drawn out discussions of the many new fangled governmental wrinkles suggested and advocated by designing politicians anxious to ride into office and power on the crest of some ism tide which may catch the fancy of a majority of the voters, might have saved themselves all the noise and trouble.

How?

By never departing from the good, old fashioned plan of putting only honest and morally clean men in office.

All these reforms designed to save the people from the consequences of their own wilfully or negligently wrong conduct would find no attentive ear if the voters had all along insisted that only clean men be placed in office and power.

It is astonishing that any intelligent voter would for a fraction of a second allow himself to believe that a man morally unclean could make a good public servant.

Yet there are men today who make no secret of the life they live—men who forget or disregard intentionally the sacred ties of home—men who cast aside in the first hours of success the wife and family who struggled uncomplainingly and even cheerfully along the apparently endless road of adversity—who are now aspiring to high places within the gift of the people.

There are men who in the first moments of victory to gratify an ambition, forget or betray the men on whose broad shoulders they leaned and on whose substance they fed until able to "go it alone."

Men of that stripe have the hardihood to ask the intelligent voters to invest them with the power of office.

That kind of men pose as reformers and claim right to recognition because they stand for higher and better things. Just so long as the voters allow or compel themselves to believe that men who will betray their friends, lead immoral lives, be unclean and false in their private life can be clean and honest in public affairs, just so long will the voters be casting about like a rudderless ship, seeking aid.

We do not need the initiative and referendum, the recall and other reforms injected into our fabric of government, good though they may be, nearly so much as we need reform in the men who are trusted with the reins of power.

We have progressed from the days of crude boodling in politics but we still have the boss and we still have the candidate who has betrayed home and friends, whose private life is as black as night, asking the voters to believe that he can and will honestly and conscientiously serve them as a public official.

While We Sleep Other Nations Will Reap Benefits of Panama Canal

European Countries Already Have Strong Footing In South America

By LEWIS NIXON, Shipbuilder and Merchant Marine Advocate

AS THE SITUATION NOW STANDS WE SHALL HAVE THE SATISFACTION OF BUILDING

AND PAYING FOR THE PANAMA CANAL. BUT UNLESS THERE IS A DECIDED AWAKENING AMONG OUR PEOPLE OTHER COUNTRIES WILL REAP THE BENEFITS THAT WILL FOLLOW ITS OPENING TO WORLD COMMERCE.

For a nation that prides itself on its practical business sense the spectacle of the great engineers who are rapidly bringing the canal to completion inspiring congress to enact such legislation as will enable them to prepare for its efficient and economic operation is a REFLECTION ON AMERICAN STATESMANSHIP. There seems to be an idea prevailing that the opening of the canal will be followed by great prosperity.

The fact must not be lost sight of that through San Francisco we already have water communication with the west coast of South America. Yet Great Britain and Germany by commercial enterprise control the CREAM OF THE TRADE ALONG THAT COAST.

And this trade has grown up even though we controlled one Panama railway, and the passing at one time of six-sevenths of its shares into the hands of the French company made no difference.

So outside of its war value the advantage to our people will be LITTLE AFFECTED BY THE TITULAR CONTROL UNLESS WE ARISE TO THE COMMERCIAL AND MARITIME NEEDS OF THE SITUATION.

Poetry—Today

THE GARDEN CATALOGUE.

The seedsmen and the nurserymen are sending out the books With lots of wondrous pictures of green yards and grassy nooks. The florists' lists are coming, with the printed front that glows With tulips and carnations and the Maryland Beauty rose. They make delightful reading, though we greet with haughty scorn Their statements in re 'sparagus and lima beans and corn. But don't be too hard on them, for it may be they are yet About as near the country as the most of us will get!

They come by mail and messenger, and how their covers shine. With every bean a mammoth bean upon a mammoth vine. The turnips and potatoes look already good to eat.

And yet with spears and stollings men are prone these lists to greet. They're interesting documents, however, and we take Their home inside our pockets and we talk of hoe and rake. Of exercise we're needing, for amid our foam and fret They're almost all the country that the most of us will get.

We've propagated acres in our dreams, and still we dream Of gardens growing magical in catalogues of gleam. So, when the season brings them in our morning mail again, We try to give them welcome with the friendship of real men; Not that we'll ever believe them or be guided what they say. But that they bring a freshness to our dusty, toiling way. And that mid all life's trouble and its worry and regret They're about as near the country as the most of us will get.

BOTTOMLESS PIKES WORST EVER KNOWN

MANY ALMOST IMPASSABLE
Main Thoroughfares of Fayette County in Most Deplorable Condition and Rapidly Growing Worse.

Pikes in Many Instances Are Cut Through and Through, From Fence to Fence, So That Traffic Is Tedious and Almost Impossible.

The main pikes of Fayette county are now in a much worse condition than they have ever been since their construction back in the seventies, and their condition is decidedly alarming to say the least, much more resembling the old mud roads of old than the firm pikes the citizens have been used to for the past 35 years. The present deplorable condition of the county's pikes is such that no ordinary load can be hauled without great difficulty, and traveling by buggy is slow and tedious, while traveling by automobile is almost impossible, and upon some roads is entirely out of the question. The county's main thoroughfares are cut to great depths from side to side in innumerable places, so that there is no alternative but to drive directly through the deep mud, where on and bottom of the pikes are mixed together, the soil under the gravel having been turned up by deep plowing wheels, cutting the road entirely through. During the thawing weather of last week the roads grew soft and soggy wherever sufficient crown was lacking, and the rain accumulated in the ruts, causing the road to become still more soft until the crust was worn away. Constant wear and lack of sufficient attention in keeping the pikes properly crowned, are the primary causes of the rapid deterioration.

and many place the blame on rapidly driven automobiles which throw the dust aside in the summer time and the soft mud in the wet weather, creating outer edges of the road that are higher than the center, and affording one almost unbroken trough to hold the water until it penetrates the crust and causes it to collapse under the weight of ordinary loads. Well crowned roads are not the ones which are impassable, but are in good condition considering the weather. All travelers are complaining of the difficulty they experience in making their journey, invariably agreeing that they never saw the roads as completely cut to pieces as at present, with prospects of their condition becoming much worse before good weather arrives to check the destruction of Fayette's two million dollar pikes.

Another Turn In Sensational Case

Another chapter was added to the domestic troubles of the Sellars and Suttons, prominent Greene county people, when Bertha M. Sellars filed suit for divorce from Frank Sutton, alleging failure to support.

A damage suit in which Frank Sutton sued his father-in-law, Addison Sellars, for $10,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections, was recently compromised, Sutton accepting $500 of the $8,000 awarded him by the jury. The case was one of the most sensational ever tried in Greene county.

Mrs. Bailey, who is about 50 years of age, had kept her family in ignorance of her suffering for two years, in order to save them the terrible worry which she herself experienced. Mad Dog Scare In Paint Township

A posse was hurriedly organized in the Wesley Chapel neighborhood, one mile east of Bookwalter in Paint township Wednesday morning, to slay a dog which was believed to be suffering from the rabies.

The animal belonged to Henry Rader, living on the Woods road east of Wesley Chapel, and had been acting strangely for a day or two. Wednesday its condition became much worse and it started west on the Woods road, and when it reached the Wesley Chapel neighborhood it was pursued by Chas. Allen and a number of others, and after quite an exciting chase was slain on the Ford Ervin farm, Mr. Allen firing the shot which ended its life.

No one was bitten, but it is thought other dogs in the locality may have been bitten by the mad dog.

Our Constitution

The Ohio Constitutional Convention may be in session much longer than was that which framed the constitution of the United States. It has concluded four amendments after deliberating since the middle of January. The probability is that a score or more will be framed, although at the outset it was believed that eight or ten would satisfy the demand for revision. There are hundreds of proposals, of course, in committee. The four decided upon for submission to the people propose that verdicts in civil cases may be rendered by three-fourths of a jury, that $50,000,000 shall be borrowed for country roads improvement; that the liquor traffic shall be licensed, and that women may vote on equal terms with men. The liquor situation in Ohio is probably unique. In the present constitution which was adopted in 1851, it is provided that no license shall ever be granted. This appears to mean prohibition, and perhaps was so intended. But the discovery was made that the liquor traffic could be engaged in even though it could not be licensed. As a matter of fact, the traffic flourished. There is a further clause to the effect that the "Legislature may by law provide against the evils resulting therefrom," but only after much difficulty was a legal method devised for taxing the business without the employment of licenses.

Main Thoroughfares of Fayette County in Most Deplorable Condition and Rapidly Growing Worse.

Pikes in Many Instances Are Cut Through and Through, From Fence to Fence, So That Traffic Is Tedious and Almost Impossible.

The main pikes of Fayette county are now in a much worse condition than they have ever been since their construction back in the seventies, and their condition is decidedly alarming to say the least, much more so than the old mud roads of old times. The present deplorable condition of the county's pikes is such that no ordinary load can be hauled without great difficulty, and traveling by buggy is slow and tedious, while traveling by automobile is almost impossible, and upon some roads is entirely out of the question. The county's main thoroughfares are cut to great depths from side to side in innumerable places, so that there is no alternative but to drive directly through the deep mud, where top and bottom of the pikes are mixed together, the soil under the travel having been turned up by deep plowing wheels, cutting the road entirely through. During the thawing weather of last week the roads grew soft and waxy wherever sufficient crown was lacking, and the rain accumulated in the ruts, causing the road to become still more soft until the crust gave way. Constant wear and lack of sufficient attention in keeping the pikes properly crowned, are the primary causes of the rapid deterioration, and many place the blame on rapidly driven automobiles which throw the dust aside in the summer time and the soft mud in the wet weather, creating outer edges of the road that are higher than the center, and affording one almost unbroken trough to hold the water until it penetrates the crust and causes it to collapse under the weight of ordinary loads. Well crowned roads are not the ones which are impassable, but are in good condition, considering the weather. All travelers are complaining of the difficulty they experience in making their journey, invariably agreeing that they never saw the roads as completely cut to pieces as at present, with prospects of their condition becoming much worse before good weather arrives to check the destruction of Fayette's two million dollar pikes.

Another Turn In Sensational Case

Another chapter was added to the domestic troubles of the Sellars and Suttons, prominent Greene county people, when Bertha M. Sellars filed suit for divorce from Frank Sutton, alleging failure to support.

A damage suit in which Frank Sutton sued his father-in-law, Addison Sellars, for $10,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections, was recently compromised, Sutton accepting $500 of the $8,000 awarded him by the jury. The case was one of the most sensational ever tried in Greene county.

Mrs. John Bailey, a well known lady living a few miles west of Jeffersonville, underwent a serious operation for the removal of a cancer from her breast, at the McAllehan hospital in Xenia, this week, and she is now recovering in a very satisfactory manner.

Mrs. Bailey, who is about 50 years of age, had kept her family in ignorance of her suffering for two years, in order to save them the terrible worry which she herself experienced. A few days ago the cancer was accidentally discovered by her daughter, and arrangements were immediately commenced for the operation in order that her life might be saved.

Mad Dog Scare In Paint Township

A posse was hurriedly organized in the Wesley Chapel neighborhood, one mile east of Bookwalter, in Paint township Wednesday morning, to slay a dog which was believed to be suffering from the rabies. The animal belonged to Henry Rader, living on the Woods road east of Wesley Chapel, and had been acting strangely for a day or two. Wednesday its condition became much worse and it started west on the Woods road, and when it reached the Wesley Chapel neighborhood it was pursued by Chas. Allen and a number of others, and after quite an exciting chase was slain on the Ford Ervin farm, Mr. Allen firing the shot which ended its life. No one was bitten, but it is thought other dogs in the locality may have been bitten by the mad dog.

Our Constitution

The Ohio Constitutional Convention may be in session much longer than was that which framed the constitution of the United States. It has concluded four amendments after deliberating since the middle of January. The probability is that a score or more will be framed, although at the outset it was believed that eight or ten would satisfy the demand for revision. There are hundreds of proposals, of course, in committee. The four decided upon for submission to the people propose that verdicts in civil cases may be rendered by three-fourths of a jury, that $50,000,000 shall be borrowed for country roads improvement, that the liquor traffic shall be licensed, and that women may vote on equal terms with men. The liquor situation in Ohio is probably unique. In the present constitution which was adopted in 1851, it is provided that no license shall ever be granted. This appears to mean prohibition, and perhaps was so intended. But the discovery was made that the liquor traffic could be engaged in even though it could not be licensed. As a matter of fact, the traffic flourished. There is a further clause to the effect that the "Legislature may by law provide against the evils resulting therefrom," but only after much difficulty was a legal method devised for taxing the business without the employment of licenses.

Mattie Delong Nabbed by Chief McCoy and Returned to Her Home--Was Found in Room Rented by Member of the "Commercial Traveler" Troupe.

Another case of a young girl becoming infatuated with a smooth-tongued knight of the foot-lights came to light in this city Wednesday, when Mattie Delong, 17, daughter of Mrs. Martin Delong, of Pickaway street, Circleville, was apprehended by the police here who had been tipped off that the girl had run away from home and was in the company of Walla Grayson, a member of the "Commercial Traveler" troupe which played at the Empire Wednesday night.

The girl was found in a room Grayson had rented, and Chief McCoy conducted her to the mayor's office, where she was closely questioned by himself and Mayor Smith. The girl broke down and sobbed out the story of how she came to be here, saying that Grayson had paid her way, giving her name, and that of her mother.

Patrolman Cogswell was dispatched to find Grayson and bring him in, soon returning with his man. The girl's mother was called by long distance and asked that her daughter be sent home. Grayson, who claimed that the girl had followed him and that he had not induced her to come, was glad to pay all of her expenses in order to secure his own release.

The girl was held until the evening train left for Circleville, a ticket purchased with money furnished by Grayson, and she was sent home to her mother. The girl was of fairly good appearance. Her mother is said to be a wash-woman and it is also claimed that the girl collected money due her mother in order to follow Grayson to this city.

Breaks Jail Gives Self Up

Harry Lee, a man confined in the Greene county jail, made a sensational escape a few nights ago, leaving the jail keys in the door. His absence was not discovered until the next morning when Sheriff McAllister found the keys in the door and Lee missing. A number of other prisoners had not been liberated, and it was evident that Lee had some outside assistance in his escape.

A diligent search failed to reveal the man's whereabouts, and a reward of $50 was offered for his apprehension. Tuesday night Lee called up the sheriff from Dayton, and told him he would be back, as he did not wish to cause him any trouble. He was later arrested while in the act of boarding a Xenia-bound car.

Gas Trust Is After Lancaster

Dispatches from Lancaster state that the gas trust is seeking to punish that city for 23 years of successful municipal gas ownership.

It has notified Lancaster that it will boost the present gas rate 4 cents a thousand cubic feet.

The city-owned gas wells are giving out. There are 22 of them but some are small producers. City officials are planning to drill new wells, but aren't confident of success.

If this fails they may use $130,000 of a surplus in the gas fund to build a municipal electric light and power and artificial fuel gas plant. They are told such a gas can be manufactured for 15 cents a thousand cubic feet.

But if both these projects should fail, Lancaster at least can't be robbed by the gas trust of the benefits that have accrued to it during 23 years of successful municipal ownership.

A low gas rate.

Equal treatment for all consumers.

A $250,000 gas plant.

A $120,000 gas fund surplus.

A $90,000 city hall paid for from gas receipts.

General improvement bonds to the amount of $110,000 canceled from the gas fund, including some for paving, a fire station and a municipal water plant.

When Lancaster has boasted about these things, officials of private gas companies have warned its officials that sometime the gas supply would give out, and that they oughtn't to agitate municipal ownership in other cities.

Now the trust thinks it can punish Lancaster.

The city has drawn its gas supply from local wells since 1889. At first the rate was $1 a month a fire for seven months in the year with summer gas free. Everybody burned gas freely. In 1902 the supply began to fail, the city began to buy gas, and meter service was installed. The rate was raised to eight cents a thousand, then 12 and now is 15.

For some years the city has been buying part of its supply from the Logan Gas Co. at 14 cents, selling it for 15. The contract expires in July. It recently asked for bids from four companies, but the Logan company was the only bidder, its price being 18 cents.

In the days of '61 how many of the brave soldiers were urged to deeds of valor and heroism by thoughts of "the girl he left behind." This story tells of the transforming of a pusillanimous coward into a lion-hearted hero by the derision of the girl he loved. The most thrilling war drama ever staged.

NEWS FROM BUCKEYE CITIES

Police Chief Loses Job.
Cincinnati, O., March 21.—Chief of Police William Jackson, a hold-over from the last administration, was removed from office by Mayor Hunt following testimony at a police court trial that he was unable to ascertain whether the Gottlieb was a known gambler. Gottlieb had been arraigned as a known gambler, following the continued attempts of the new administration to suppress handbooks and other forms of gambling.

First Accident Reported.
Columbus, O., March 21.—The first report of an accident to be made under the new workmen's compensation act has been made to the state liability board of awards. It came from Lem C. Fridley, an employee of the Delphos Manufacturing company of Delphos, which makes metal wares, who was injured March 14, his hand being caught in a machine, causing amputation of a finger.

Leaves Note For Coroner.
New Philadelphia, O., March 21.—"Croaked at 1 o'clock sharp. Death instantaneous—or almost. Easiest way to croak I know of." This note, headed "the coroner's verdict," and addressed to Coroner A. W. Davis, was found on the body of Ted Crater, young artist, who suicided in a Newcomertown hotel. The coroner says the youth was insane.

Dancer Fatally Shot.
Alliance, O., March 21.—Bullets flew at a party attended by three men and three women. The women fled before the police arrived. The officers found Sam Collarino lying on the floor, fatally wounded. After a chase which ended at Salem they arrested John Starkovics, whom they accused of the shooting. Now they are looking for the women.

Recovers Stolen Son.
Columbus, O., March 21.—Mrs. Rhoda Warner of Lancaster this morning was reunited with her son, W. W. Warner, 21, who was stolen from her 15 years ago by her drunk husband. Warner has been living at Jennings, O., and only recently learned that his mother was alive.

Noted Robber Leaves Pen.
Columbus, O., March 21.—C. A. Taylor, alias "Jack Lowery," 66, the last member of the notorious "Blinky" Morgan gang, was released from the pen at the expiration of sentence. He served a 10-year sentence for blowing up the safe of a Chardon bank in April of 1909.

After thirty years of duty side by side for the public good, and oft times in imminent danger of their lives, the "Modern Damon and Pythias of Lebanon," Theodore Williams and Larry Collins are now at the parting of the ways.

These gentlemen have been engineer and conductor, respectively, on the C. L. & N. railroad ever since 1882, and throughout that entire time ran the same train between Cincinnati and Lebanon. They were thus together throughout the entire day, and a friendship sprung up which was akin only to the Damon and Pythias of history.

Each had sacrificed much at various times and their devotion of each other throughout three decades has not been marred by a moment of jealousy, a single disagreement or discord of any kind.

Mr. Collins has been transferred to another train between Lebanon and Cincinnati, and for convenience has moved his family to Cincinnati.

Thus these two veterans of the road have come at last to the parting of the ways. The other day, at the close of their last run together, they clasped hands. Nothing was said, and no one but they themselves knew what their hearts spoke.

Harrison: "I expect you to do me all the good you can."

Senator Huffman: "He is an old timer. He knows the ropes. This is his third term."

Harrison: "If you feel there is a balance coming to you, you will get it. You needn't worry about that. I want to get it through with as little noise as possible."

Senator Huffman: "We are not trying to hold you up, or anything like that. We are not pirates."

WHO PAYS THE BILL?

Congress Inquisitive About Secretary of State Knox's Valet.

Washington, March 21.—Representative Hamlin of Missouri, chairman of the house committee on expenditures in the state department, announced that he learned that Secretary Knox's valet, who is accompanying the secretary on his South American trip, is a $1,200 employee of the state department mailing room. The Hamlin committee is investigating the case and will summon the secretary to testify on his return.

The Hamlin committee also developed the fact that no one at the state department has any idea at the present time where the money is coming from to defray the expenses of the secretary's South American trip.

GOLD CROWN ON PIG'S TOOTH

Cartridge Shell Through Long Use Had Come to Have Brightness of the Precious Metal.

St. Louis.—William Wellingshoff, a farmer of Bridgeton, St. Louis county, several days ago discovered that one of his "fattenin'" hogs had what appeared to be a gold crowned tooth. The yellow metal gleamed every time the hog opened its mouth. The farmer was puzzled.

He butchered the animal and before he quartered it he examined the tooth. He found the animal had in some way got a 22-caliber brass shell around the tooth. Brightened by long use and worn to fit the tooth, the shell resembled a perfect gold dentist's crown.

The tooth was sent to the dental department of Washington university.

Trade Between U.S. And Mexico

Trade of the United States with Mexico is showing the effect of the disturbed business conditions in that country. This is especially true to reference to exports which show a much greater decline than imports. Exports to Mexico during the last year show a fall of about 20 per cent. When compared with the immediately preceding year, while imports also a slight decline but less than that of exports. The total value of exports to Mexico during the 12 months ending with January 1912, the latest figures of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, is $52,271,987, against $64,671,659 in the corresponding months of the immediately preceding year, a decline of about 12 million dollars, or an average falling off of a little more than a million dollars a month during this period. Imports from Mexico during the same period amounted to $59,227,516, against $59,981,899 during the corresponding period of the preceding year, being less than 1 million dollars decrease.

This falling off of 12 million dollars in exports to Mexico in the 12 months ending with January 1912 becomes even more apparent when contrasted with our trade with other parts of the world. Exports to South America, for example, show an increase of 25 per cent. in the seven months ending with January, 1912, when compared with the corresponding months of the preceding year; those to Cuba and the other West Indies, a slight increase, while, to Mexico, the exports during the 7 months ending with January, 1912, decreased nearly 25 per cent., and during the year, as indicated above, about 20 per cent. In every month since April, 1911, the value of merchandise exported to Mexico has been less than that of the corresponding month of the preceding year. April, 1911, having been in fact the only one of the past 12 months which did not show a decline in exports to Mexico when compared with the corresponding month of the preceding year.

Manufactures, form, by far the largest part of our exports to Mexico under ordinary conditions. Of the 60 million dollars worth of domestic merchandise exported to Mexico during the fiscal year 1911, manufactures of iron and steel alone amounted to over 20 million dollars; cars, about 2 million; boots and shoes, and lumber, nearly 3 million; scientific instruments, more than one million; chemicals, chiefly manufactured over 1 million; explosives, nearly 1 million; automobiles, over 1.2 million; agricultural implements, over 1.2 million; glass and glassware, nearly 1.2 million; manufactures of India rubber, nearly 3.4 of a million; furniture, about 3.4 of a million; and a large number of other manufactures in less sums, while in other articles the reports of the bureau of statistics show corn to the value of nearly 5 million dollars, and meats about 2 million, in each case a material increase over the preceding year.

The falling off in exports to Mexico, as above outlined, is evidently a mere part of the general reduction in her imports, a reduction in which the United States participates to a somewhat less degree than do other countries. An examination of the latest official publications of the Mexican Government received at the Bureau of Statistics, shows a falling off of about 10 per cent. in her imports from the United States, and approximately 17 per cent. in her imports from all other countries, during the six months ending with December, 1911. Her exports to the United States in the same period showed a decline of about 3 per cent., while those to other countries showed an increase of about 8 per cent.

Sixty Per Cent Tell Falsehoods

"Sixty per cent of what people who appear before taxing officials say can be depended upon to be untrue."

This was a statement made Monday afternoon by Frank A. Sarstedt, member of the Cleveland board of review, before the conference of 200 county auditors and city boards of review, which convened in Columbus in the morning for two days' session. The meeting was called by the Ohio tax commission for the purpose, mainly, of devising a method of obtaining a more complete return of personal property and discussing taxation problems in general.

Speaking on "The Assessment of Incorporated Companies," Mr. Sarstedt said: "The chief thing is for a taxing board to gain the confidence of the public, the owners of large companies, and to impress upon them that all are to be treated alike. This is the best method I know to obtain results."

FREE MEDICINE

SICKENS CHILD

The practice of advertising medicine by distributing samples, which are tossed on the verandahs, is one that should be stopped in every community. A few days ago advertising of this barbaric nature was inflicted upon the city of Chillicothe. The result, as mentioned in the Chillicothe Advertiser, is one that may happen any day in this city:

"The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carnes of Brownell street, became very ill and for a time her life was despaired of. The child had swallowed a portion of a sample bottle of medicine which had been thrown on the front porch by advertising agents. Dr. Marsh attended the child and pronounced her out of danger."

"There is an ordinance that prohibits the distributing of medicine in this fashion, there having been similar cases in other cities in the past, which were far more serious. The attention of the authorities has been called to the matter."

A Cup Full of Coffee Satisfaction

THAT is what every cup of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is. It smells like good coffee—it tastes like good coffee. But it has not one of the bad after-effects of coffee.

It won't hurt the most sensitive stomach. It is good for it—tones up the digestion—and at the same time gives the palate all the pleasure that the finest coffee ever sold can give.

Fitch's Grains of Health

The Coffee Substitute With the Coffee Taste

It is different from the ordinary tasteless or vile tasting coffee substitutes, as maple syrup is different from castor oil.

Many cannot tell Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH from coffee. Try it today and know for yourself how good it is. Drink all you want. The more the better. Physicians recommend it.

If your grocer cannot supply you, write us, mentioning his name, and we will send you a generous sample package of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH (enough to serve a large family at breakfast) and a booklet telling you all about Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Enclose 6 cents in stamp for postage.

Trade Between U. S. And Mexico

Trade of the United States with Mexico is showing the effect of the disturbed business conditions in that country. This is especially true to reference to exports which show a much greater decline than imports. Exports to Mexico during the last year show a fall of about 29 per cent, when compared with the immediately preceding year, while imports also a slight decline but less than that of exports. The total value of exports to Mexico during the 12 months ending with January 1912, the latest figures of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, is $52,271,987, against $64,671,859 in the corresponding months of the immediately preceding year, a decline of about 12 million dollars, or an average falling off of a little more than a million dollars a month during this period. Imports from Mexico during the same period amounted to $59,227,516, against $59,981,859 during the corresponding period of the preceding year, being less than 1 million dollars decrease.

This falling off of 12 million dollars in exports to Mexico in the 12 months ending with January 1912 becomes even more apparent when contrasted with our trade with other parts of the world. Exports to South America, for example, show an increase of 25 per cent. In the seven months ending with January, 1912, when compared with the corresponding months of the preceding year; those to Cuba and the other West Indies, a slight increase, while to Mexico, the exports during the 7 months ending with January, 1912, decreased nearly 25 per cent, and during the year, as indicated above, about 29 per cent. In every month since April, 1911, the value of merchandise exported to Mexico has been less than that of the corresponding month of the preceding year; April, 1911, having been in fact the only one of the past 12 months which did not show a decline in exports to Mexico when compared with the corresponding month of the preceding year.

Manufactures form by far the largest part of our exports to Mexico under ordinary conditions. Of the 69 million dollars worth of domestic merchandise exported to Mexico during the fiscal year 1911, manufactures of iron and steel alone amounted to over 20 million dollars, cars about 2 million, boots and shoes, and lumber, nearly 3 million; scientific instruments, more than one million; chemicals, chiefly manufactured, over 1 million; explosives, nearly 1 million; automobiles, over 1.2 million; agricultural implements, over 1.2 million; glass and glassware, nearly 1.2 million; manufactures of India rubber, nearly 3.4 of a million; furniture, about 3.4 of a million; and a large number of other manufactures in less sums, while in other articles the reports of the bureau of statistics show corn to the value of nearly 5 million dollars, and meats about 2 million, in each case a material increase over the preceding year.

The falling off in exports to Mexico, as above outlined, is evidently a mere part of the general reduction in her imports, a reduction in which the United States participates to a somewhat less degree than do other countries. An examination of the latest official publications of the Mexican Government received at the Bureau of Statistics, shows a falling off of about 10 per cent, in her imports from the United States, and approximately 17 per cent, in her imports from all other countries, during the six months ending with December, 1911. Her exports to the United States in the same period showed a decline of about 3 per cent, while those to other countries showed an increase of about 8 per cent.

The share of Mexico's imports which were drawn from the United States in the six months ending with December, 1911, was in round terms, 55 per cent, and the share of her imports to the United States, about 77 per cent. In the fiscal year 1909-10 the share of her imports drawn from the United States was, in round terms 58 per cent, and of her exports sent to the United States, 76 per cent.

FREE MEDICINE

The practice of advertising medicine by distributing samples, which are tossed on the verandahs, is one that should be stopped in every community. A few days ago advertising of this barbaric nature was inflicted upon the city of Chillicothe. The result, as mentioned in the Chillicothe Advertiser, is one that may happen any day in this city:

"The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carnes of Brownell street, became very ill and for a time her life was despaired of. The child had swallowed a portion of a sample bottle of medicine which had been thrown on the front porch by advertising agents. Dr. Marsh attended the child and pronounced her out of danger."

"There is an ordinance that prohibits the distributing of medicine in this fashion, there having been similar cases in other cities in the past, which were far more serious. The attention of the authorities has been called to the matter."

Sixty Per Cent Tell Falsehoods

"Sixty per cent of what people who appear before taxing officials say can be depended upon to be untrue."

This was a statement made Monday afternoon by Frank A. Sarstedt, member of the Cleveland board of review, before the conference of 200 county auditors and city boards of review, which convened in Columbus in the morning for two days' session. The meeting was called by the Ohio tax commission for the purpose, mainly, of devising a method of obtaining a more complete return of personal property and discussing taxation problems in general.

Speaking on "The Assessment of Incorporated Companies," Mr. Sarstedt said: "The chief thing is for a taxing board to gain the confidence of the public, the owners of large companies, and to impress upon them that all are to be treated alike. This is the best method I know to obtain results."
